Cantata Singers to Present A Seasonal Celebration Holiday Concert

Lexington has become a hub of culture for the Greater Boston area, and Cary Hall is becoming a home for Cantata Singers, one of Boston’s premiere choruses.

Cantata Singers will present A Seasonal Celebration holiday concert for Lexington locals in December, featuring Hugo Distler’s beloved “Es ist ein Ros’ entsprungen” variations from The Christmas Story alongside works by Monteverdi, Schütz, Schoenberg, Lassus, Victoria, and Biber.

Many members of our chorus come from Lexington, including Lexington Music School Director Epp Sonin, Cary Memorial Library librarian Jennifer Webb, Cantata Singers’ founding member Charles Husbands, and Cantata Singers’ Music Director David Hoose. A story in Colonial Times Magazine that highlights the colorful stories of Cantata Singers’ chorus members would provide a captivating image of the wealth of talent residing in Lexington.

Cantata Singers will perform A Seasonal Celebration twice, on Friday, December 16, 2016 at 8pm in Cary Hall, Lexington, and on Saturday, December 17, 2016 at 8pm in St. Paul Church, Cambridge. Scott Allen Jarrett, Director of Music at Marsh Chapel, will give the pre-concert talk at both performances at 7pm.
